

1-2-1 remote support for managers & leaders in unprecedented times.

bbc offers remote coaching sessions to get business professionals back on track to cope with the current challenging global situation.

Kevin Fox M.D.
biz brain company

Kevin has over 25 years of coaching and training experience, working with business professionals from organizations world wide. Kevin has personally delivered over 200 hours of 1-2-1 remote coaching sessions globally in the past 12 months, resulting in high quality performance breakthroughs for managers and leaders.

“We are witnessing an increasing number of professionals in many countries, who are at very high stress levels and are struggling to cope with the current challenging situation”. Some examples of the challenges that have stacked up on managers and leaders are:

- Personal issues (family/health)
- Remote working
- Staffing issues (sickness/redundancies)
- Customer demands (delays/cancellation)
- Supply chain issues
- Adoption of emergency policies

Managers and leaders faced with the above would benefit from coaching assistance in areas such as:

- Planning and prioritizing
- Personal organization
- Communication
- Decision making
- Reducing personal stress levels
- Critical thinking

We are offering remote 1-2-1 coaching sessions at short notice to leaders and managers in your organization in multi lingual formats.

The investment is €290 p/h (includes a 15 minute “pre plan” and a 15 minute “wrap up”).

References are available on request.

Please contact us to find out more and tailor a solution to meet your needs.